ADDITIONAL STANDARDS FOR WAIVER OF MONTHLY DEDUCTION BENEFITS FOR TOTAL DISABILITY AND OTHER QUALIFYING EVENTS

Scope: These standards apply to waiver of monthly deduction benefits that are built into individual life insurance policy forms or added to such policy forms by rider, endorsement or amendment. The waiver is for monthly deductions made under an individual life insurance policy where monthly deductions are applicable, in the event that the insured becomes totally disabled or experiences any allowable qualifying event under the terms of the form. The waiver can include waiver benefits for one or more benefit triggers and is not required to provide waiver for both total disability and all qualifying events. Products subject to these standards shall not be described as long-term care insurance or as providing long-term care benefits. If the payment of waiver of monthly deduction benefits is contingent upon receipt of long-term care services or supports, these standards shall not apply and such benefit will be subject to the Interstate Insurance Product Regulation Commission standards for individual long-term care insurance.

Mix and Match: These standards are available to be used in combination with State Product Components as described in § 111(b) of the Operating Procedure for the Filing and Approval of Product Filings.

Self-Certification: These standards are not available to be filed using the Rule for the Self-Certification of Product Components Filed with the Interstate Insurance Product Regulation Commission.

As used in these standards, the following definitions apply:

“Benefit ineligibility period” means the initial period of time during which the insured is ineligible to receive the waiver benefit, whether or not there is a qualifying event. A benefit ineligibility period is only allowed if there is no identifiable charge for the waiver benefit.

“Benefit eligibility date” means the date the benefit ineligibility period ends. If there is no benefit ineligibility period, the benefit eligibility date is the waiver benefit issue date.

“Monthly deduction” includes the actual cost of insurance charges, expense charges, and costs of charges for any benefits added to the policy by rider, endorsement, or amendment, and which are specified in the policy to be deducted from the account value.

“Preexisting condition” means an injury or sickness beginning, commencing, originating, occurring, sustained or manifesting or first manifesting itself before the waiver benefit issue date, which may or may not be the cause of a qualifying event.

“Qualifying event” means any of the following, as long as the event meets the requirements of this standard:

- (1) Diagnosis of limited life expectancy or life-threatening condition;
- (2) Diagnosis of cognitive impairment;
- (3) Assessment by qualified professional establishing inability to perform certain activities of daily living;
- (4) Receipt of care from a health care facility;
- (5) Disability other than total disability; or
- (6) Unemployment.

“Waiting period” means the period of time that must elapse after a qualifying event before the owner can receive the waiver benefit. If the qualifying event occurs during the benefit ineligibility period, the waiting period may begin on the benefit eligibility date.

“Waiver benefit” means a waiver of the monthly deductions made under an individual life insurance policy where monthly deductions are applicable.

In addition to the applicable policy Uniform Standards, the following provisions, as applicable apply:

§ 3 BENEFIT PROVISIONS

A. BENEFIT

- (1) A waiver benefit form that includes a waiver of monthly deduction as a result of total disability shall describe the total disability conditions that shall be met to be eligible for the waiver benefit. The conditions shall comply with the following:
  - (a) The definition of total disability shall not be less favorable than the following:
    - (i) During the first 24 months of total disability, the insured is unable to perform the substantial and material duties of their job due to sickness or accidental bodily injury; and
    - (ii) After the first 24 months of total disability, the insured, due to sickness or accidental bodily injury, is unable to perform any of the substantial and material duties of their job, or any other job for which they become reasonably suited by education, training or experience.

Drafting Note: At the discretion of the company, the form may provide for more favorable or additional definitions of total disability such as for full-time students and homemakers.

- (b) The form may expand the definition of total disability to include presumptive total disability such as the insured's total and permanent loss of: sight of both eyes; hearing of both ears; speech; or the use of both hands, both feet or one hand and one foot;

- (f) The form shall state the period of time required for the total disability to continue, such as a consecutive period of six months, before the company will approve a claim for the waiver benefit. If the company approves the claim for the waiver benefit after the specified period of time, the company shall credit to the policy's account value an amount equal to the waived monthly deductions taken after the first of the benefit month on or following the date the insured's total disability began, and the account value will be adjusted accordingly.
- (g) The form may base the type of waiver benefit available on the insured's age on the date disability begins, but shall not do so on terms less favorable than the following:
  - (i) If the insured's total disability begins before the benefit anniversary on which the insured attains age 60, the form shall state that the company shall waive all monthly deductions which it would have taken under the policy for the period that the insured continues to be totally disabled. If such period extends to the benefit anniversary on which the insured attains age 65, the form shall state that the company shall waive all further monthly deductions due for the insured under the policy;-and
  - (ii) If the insured's total disability begins after the benefit anniversary on which the insured attains the age specified in item (i) for when total disability begins, the form shall state that the company shall waive all monthly deductions which it would have taken under the policy for the period that the insured continues to be totally disabled, but only up to the benefit anniversary on which the insured attains age 65;

- (i) The form shall state that if total disability begins during a grace period, sufficient funds will be required to be added to the account value to ensure that any overdue monthly deductions can be taken to avoid a lapse of insurance before the company approves the claim for the waiver benefit.

- (j) The form shall describe the initial and subsequent due proof requirements for total disability. To initialize a claim, the form may require written notice and proof of total disability while the insured is alive and totally disabled, or as soon as reasonably possible. During a specified period of time after the company approves the claim for the waiver benefit, not to exceed 24 months, the form may require proof of continued total disability not more frequently than once every 30 days. After such specified period of time, the form shall state that the company shall not require proof more than once in any 12-month period. The form may also state that as part of the due proof requirement, the company at its expense may have its designated physician examine the insured.
- (2) A waiver benefit may be triggered by the occurrence of a qualifying event. The qualifying event shall be described in the waiver benefit form and may include:
- (a) The insured is receiving care from a health care facility designated in the waiver benefit form. A health care facility may include, but is not limited to, the following facilities: skilled nursing, extended care, intermediate care, convalescent care, personal care, home care or hospice care.

Any such optional benefits that will not continue in force shall be disclosed in the form;
- (5) The waiver benefit form shall state that monthly deductions waived by the company shall not be deducted from the policy proceeds;

  - (b) The insured may be required to be younger than a specified age in order to be initially eligible for the waiver benefit; and
  - (c) A disclosure describing the benefit ineligibility period or the initial age limit shall be included at the top or beginning of the conditions for waiver benefit eligibility.
- (3) The form shall describe the initial and subsequent due proof requirements for total disability. To initialize a claim, the form may require written notice and proof of total disability while the insured is alive and totally disabled, or as soon as reasonably possible. During a specified period of time after the company approves the claim for the waiver benefit, not to exceed 24 months, the form may require proof of continued total disability not more frequently than once every 30 days. After such specified period of time, the form shall state that the company shall not require proof more than once in any 12-month period. For qualifying events that occur during the benefit ineligibility period, the 90 days may be measured from the later of the date of the qualifying event or the benefit eligibility date. The waiver benefit form shall not require that a new waiting period be applied to services received, treatment received or disability due to the same cause as a previously covered service, treatment or disability, or due to a cause related to the cause of a previously covered service, treatment or disability, unless the services received, treatment received or disability occurs at least 30 days after the previously-covered service, treatment or disability.

For a limited life expectancy waiver benefit, the waiver benefit form shall not require a time frame within which proof of claim must be provided.

With respect to statements made in an application for the waiver benefit, the waiver benefit is incontestable after it has been in force during the insured's lifetime for two years beginning with the day of issuance. The contestable period is based only on statements in the waiver benefit application, unless the original contestable period has not yet expired. The waiver benefit may include an exception to the incontestability provision for fraud in the procurement of the waiver benefit when permitted by applicable law in the state where the policy is delivered or issued for delivery.
